<First Name>,
FLEXcon designs pressure-sensitive films that stick around.

FLEXcon proactively meets your label performance, cost, and availability needs with a limitless range of pressure-sensitive film products and total customization capabilities that give you a distinct competitive advantage.

Labels applied to rough-textured surfaces need an aggressive adhesive in order to stay permanently in place. Otherwise, they may not adhere properly and could fall off – taking critical warning information with them. Our RTS adhesives used on FLEXcon films are specially designed to flow into the valleys of textured parts for excellent adhesion. Plus, our manufacturing and engineering expertise help ensure you get the label material that is just right for your application. Those are the high points you can expect from FLEXcon.
